21st CENTURY TEACHERS : EFFECTIVE CLASSROOM

Introduction

- “Today’s digital kids think of ICT as some thing akin to oxygen; they expect it, it’s what they breathe and it’s how they live.” – John Seely Brown
- Today’s classroom is a very different place than it was fifteen or even five years ago. Teachers are faced with larger, more diverse classrooms during a time when teacher accountability is mandated as a result of the No Child Left Behind legislation. The ability to understand and respond appropriately to students cultural, racial, economic, social and learning differences will become increasingly important to effective teaching practices. Many educators find themselves frustrated and wonder how they can measurably increase student motivation and academic performance, while at the same time manage their classrooms effectively and cultivate the students desire to embrace a life time of learning.

Characteristics of a 21st-century teacher:-

1. Learner-Centered Classroom and Personalized Instructions
2. Students as Producers

- A Light-Filled Environment.

- Conclusion

If students are to be productive members of the 21st Century workplace, they must move beyond the skills of the 20th Century and master those of the 21st Century. Teachers are entrusted with mastering these skills as well and with modelling these skills in the classroom. The characteristics of the 21st Century classroom will be very different from those of in the classrooms of the past because the focus is on producing students who are highly productive, effective communicators, inventive thinkers, and masters of technology. Etc.
